DUNREGGAN SAVED FROM SHIPWRECK AND SAFE AT FISHMARKET WHARF

THE British bark Dunreggan was pulled off the reef within a quarter of a mile of the lighthouse at Diamond Head at ten minutes past 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the united efforts of the tugs Fearless, Eleu and Iroqueis. The Fearless, Captain Gilbert Brokaw, the tug which first got hold of the Dunreggan on Wednesday, was the tug which towed the big steel bark safe into pert and shoved her comfortably up alongside the old Fishmarket wharf. The Fearless, once she got hold of the Dunreggan, never let her go, but held on from Wednesday morning, shortly after the bark went aground, until she was brought into port. Captain Brokaw knew there was something like $20,000 at the end of the hawser and held on with the tenacity of a famished building.

As the Fearless came through the channel about 6 o'clock last night with the Donreggan in tow, the red paint below the tug's water line could be seen in generous quantities, showing clearly how nearly her coal supply was exhausted.

It was quite a sight, the coming of the close-called bark into the harbor. People crowded to the edges of the wharves and gazed. They were anxious to know hew big a hole the vessel had in her bottom and if Captain Dixon had handed over the $20,000 in good, cold British gold to the rescuing tugs' captains.

As above stated, the tug Fearless kept up her pulling at the Dunreggan all Wednesday night and right up to the time when she came off. Yesterday afteraren the United States tug Iroquois went out again and got a line to the Dunreggar and pulled away with the Fearless. The position of the bark had changed somewhat about II o'clock in the morning and hopes were entertained then of getting her off the reef at the next high tide, about 3 o'clock. Not long before the time of high tide, Captain Macauley, commanding the tug Eleu temporarily, towed the ship Dirigo out to sea, when he let the Dirigo go it suddenly dawned upon him that the Dunreggan would never get off the reef without the Eleu's help. So, heading the tug for the scene of disaster, he gave the chief the signal for full speed and hurried through the water in good shape. Arriving off Diamond Head, he observed the efforts of the Fearless and Iroquois had not yet proved successful. Backing in close to the bark on the reef, he hove a heaving-line aboard the Dunreggan. Captain Dixon was on the point of suggesting terms but changed his mind and in a few minutes the Eleu was pulling with the rest. The Fearless, the Iroquois and the Eleu tugged away together for nearly an hour, when suddenly the big bark gave a jump forward of about three feet and then hesitated. Again she moved with a quick jerk, as if the greedy reef were loth to part with her so scon and were holding her back from deep water and safety. Once more her keel felt motion, not sudden and convulsive this time but slow and sure. The mea on the tug saw her coming and the tugs strained every effort to pull her off. They were rewarded. She came, gliding off the dangerous reef as easily and gracefully as slipping off an iceberg. Captains Brokaw, Pond and Macauley of the Fearless, Ircquois and Eleu felt joyful sensations of success. Aney had pulled her off; she was safe, and now for a little matter of ready cash. Captain Dixon gazed over the side and sav. the bark moving; gave a sigh of relief and scribbled a few figures hastily in his note-book.

Captain Macauley brought the Eleu into port first. "I've got something to say about the saving of the British bark," he shouted. "The Eleu pulled her off-helped to do it, I should say." Then came the Iroquois-the sturdy, strong, modest, white Iroquois. She never said a word, but she's got an awful pull-when she pulls. And last came the Fearless with the Dunreggan coming along sulkily behind at the end of the Fearless' hawser. Captain Brekaw hitched up his trousers. cast a look of pride over his tug and simply beamed with delight. He had a right to beam—scarcely here a week, the Fearless tumbles into a small fortune.

When seen by an Advertiser reporter aboard the Dunreggan, Captain G. N.

Dison had the following to say: "When the bark struck I was two miles off-shore and away outside where the charts show reefs. The chart must be wrong. The e distance from the place where the bark lay just before she was pulled off. "Yes, we jettisoned some cargo, of course, but I can't say how much. Some of the men put aboard last night to help chuck it overboard, when they started to get up a lot of boxes which came first from the main hatch, thought that the boxes contained gin. Do you know those fellows were awfully disappointed when they found it was olive oil. I can't answer half your question; I don't know the answers to them. What's that? I don't ren ember-I didn't count-I can't say now. I haven't said half the things I've been reported as saying."

It is thought that about 100 tons of the cargo was jettisoned Wednesday night and yesterday. When the Dunreggan got up to the wharf she had about twenty inches of water in her hold and was not gaining much, if anything, on the pumps. The pumps have been manned ever since she first leaked, and are going

Yesterday morning Captain Dixon called for a board of survey and one was appointed, consisting of Captain Williamson of the British bark Woolahara, Captain Thompson of the British ship City of Hankow and Captain Jackson of the British sh'p Halewood. These captains were taken out to the Dunreggan in Larser's launch. Captain Dixon has never before met with disaster during his many Travelers to Egypt should beware of the treasures they purchased in Cairo. The other day an enterprising Australian selected a mummy, and for the tive of one of the Pharaohs in good things. On mentioning his purchase a medical friend in Sydney, says the Sydney Mail, suggested the Roentgen rays being turned on the relative of chaser thereupon set to work to undo his purchase, and inside he had the melancholy pleasure of discovering stones, newspapers dated 1898, and any quantity of bulrushes. After this we with much interest.

A clergyman who gave evidence in a horse-dealing case became somewhat confused in his account of the transaction in dispute, and the cross-exam; ining counsel, after making several blustering but ineffective attempts to obtain a more satisfactory statement, said, "Pray, sir, do you know the difference between a horse and a cow?" "I acknowledge my ignorance," replied the reverend gentleman; "I hardly know the difference between a horse and a cow, or between a bull and a bully-only a bull, I am told, has horns, and a bully"-here he made a respectme, has none."
